EXT - CITY STREET - NIGHT

An engagement ring on a woman's hand, carrying a valentines gift bag. LAUREN, in smart work clothes, hurries down a deserted street towards an apartment block. Her phone rings.

LAUREN
Hey you, sorry I'm late.

EXT - BALCONY OF JASON'S APARTMENT - NIGHT

JASON looks down the street towards Lauren.

JASON
No rush. Happy Valentines Day.

LAUREN (V.O.)
Happy Valentines Day!

JASON
Good night last night?

LAUREN (V.O.)
Yeah, it was ok...

INT - TRENDY BAR - NIGHT (FLASHBACK TO NIGHT BEFORE)

Lauren and her friend down a line of shots at the bar.

LAUREN (V.O.)
...chinese takeaway, bottle of red.

JASON (V.O.)
Oh, you stayed in then?

Lauren and her friend drink at the bar with two men.

LAUREN (V.O.)
Yeah, girly night, you'd have hated it.

Lauren sits with one of the men, he makes her laugh.

EXT - CITY STREET - NIGHT

LAUREN
Anyway, how was your night?

JASON (V.O.)
Oh, I've had better.

LAUREN
Aww no. Why?

INT - TRENDY WINE BAR - NIGHT (FLASHBACK TO NIGHT BEFORE)

Jason sits in the corner, his eyes fixed on Lauren and the man as they kiss passionately on the sofa.

JASON (V.O.)
I felt a bit sick.

She pulls away from him and seductively removes her engagement ring. She takes his hand and leads him outside.

EXT - BALCONY OF JASON'S APARTMENT - NIGHT

Jason looks towards Lauren, the pain clear in his face.

LAUREN (V.O.)
Aww no, you should have phoned me.

JASON
I love you so much.

LAUREN (V.O.)
Aww, I love / you too.

JASON
But I was OK before I met you. I mean, I'd have been fine if we'd never met. You know that, right?

EXT - CITY STREET - NIGHT

Lauren slows down, she's almost at the door.

LAUREN
Yeah, of course.

JASON (V.O.)
Good, because I want you to remember for the rest of your life that this was all your fault.

Lauren stops just short of the apartment block, confused by what she's hearing. Jason's body hits the concrete in front of her.
